

Chris Bliss

A fresh and captivating voice in the tradition of American satire from Mark Twain to Jon Stewart, Chris Bliss is one of the country's top comedians. His custom writing skills and quick wit make him an excellent choice for emcee, meeting facilitator, and corporate video spokesperson – not to mention a terrific star performer to close out any session!

Chris has opened hundred of concerts, for major stars from Eric Clapton to Asia to Kenny Loggins. He was also chosen as the exclusive opening act for Michael Jackson on his record-breaking Victory Tour.

More recently, comedy legends The Smothers Brothers personally invited Chris to join them on a series of concerts, and the #1 rated variety show in France flew him to Paris to reprise his “amazing juggling finale”, as seen on the internet by some 60,000,000 people worldwide.

Set to the Beatle’s Abbey Road medley, this unique presentation has been described as among the best closing pieces in all of show business. It’s guaranteed to bring the house down and leave your attendees buzzing; one of the key goals of any corporate meeting.

In fact, Ringo Starr was impressed enough to post Chris’s performance on his website, leading British R&B icon Fatboy Slim to star Chris in his last video, “Old Pair of Jeans”, which they then performed together live on “The Late Show with David Letterman”

Smart, insightful, and timely comedy, capped off with a world-class variety closer that’s not to be missed - - Chris Bliss is two of the best in one outstanding performer.
